Subject : Product information

According to the European regulations concerning hazardous substances and preparations, it is recommended that Safety Data sheets are not issued for stationery items such as pencils, pens and markers as these items are classed as articles rather than containers of substances.

Where appropriate, we will issue Safety Data sheets for a small number of bottled inks, and we will provide information relevant to other writing products in the form of product circulars.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if you need any further information.

Best regards,
